An invitation to WALK WITH THE STRANGER and be inspired through a new resource which includes a film, When Truth is Blind, which will encourage us to listen to each other and be inspired by our conversations…

Join us at The Church at Carrs Lane, Birmingham, B4 7SX on Wednesday May 11th at 7pm for a presentation of the resource and the film with music, worship, story and reflection.
The purpose of this resource is to encourage a series of ‘sacred conversations’ in local churches on migration issues in helpful and constructive ways. With the use of testimony, poetry, story, video, drama, prayers and reflections the hope is that people will also draw on their own experiences to understand better the complex issues of migration.

_@home in a strange place_ raises questions from experiences with the intention of transforming minds, hearts and attitudes towards making a difference on issues related to migration.

This resource from the Mission Department of the United Reformed Church will be accessible online via the URC’s website, and will include the film, _When Truth is Blind._

Please join us on Wednesday May 11th at The Church at Carrs Lane, Birmingham B4 7SX at 7pm to find out more! (The Church is opposite Moor Street Station and a ten minute walk from New Street)

When Truth is Blind

a new film play starring

Delroy Brown (from ITV series Scott and Bailey)
John Sugden and Celia Morris-Sanchez

Arthur is a bitter old man who believes too many foreigners are coming to the country, but he is blind and can’t see the truth until his carer, Tom, reveals an amazing story…

Written by Richard Becher the 25 minute film raises many questions for discussion and prayer. You could have people like Arthur in your church who are “blind to the truth” so use the film and ask questions to help open hearts to the truth…

Produced and directed by Kevin Snyman with Diego Barraza as Director of Photography the film will be presented at 7pm on Wednesday May 11th at The Church at Carrs Lane, Birmingham, B4 7SX.

There will also be music from Juliet Mukisa, a singer/songwriter from Uganda and Tehillah, from Banners Gate Community Church.

Admission is free but there will be an offering to support projects working with asylum seekers and refugees.
